Not illustrated. 1889 Excerpt: . . . of no other singular points than critical points and poles, it follows that it is an algebraic function of x . This being true for any integral, let z and z , denote two integrals of (i); we have then the relation The product of any two integrals, z , z , is then an algebraic function of x . If z , and z , are two integrals, then $2z$, and $2z$, $-f$, will also be two integrals. The product z , z , and consequently, z , will be an algebraic function of the variable. Every closed path starting from and returning to a point A can be reduced to a series of loops described round the points x . o and x l ; we are therefore led to examine the behavior of the preceding ratio when we describe one of these loops. We will take for 7 , and, the integrals...
